EDUCATION FREEDOM TAX CREDIT
BEGINNING JANUARY 2027

Turn Your Tax Liability Into Scholarships for Our School

A new federal credit lets you redirect up to $1,700 of your tax bill ($3,400 for couples filing jointly) to Heritage students, at no cost to you.

THE OPPORTUNITY

What Is the EFTC?

Beginning in January 2027, this new federal tax credit can empower families in our community by funding scholarships that give K–12 students access to our school and the educational services and support that best meet their learning needs.

Donors receive a dollar-for-dollar federal tax credit (up to $1,700 for individuals, up to $3,400 for married couples filing jointly), making this a powerful way to strengthen our school's sustainability, for free.

THE IMPACT

What It Can Mean for Heritage

$170,000

100 participants × $1,700 credit

Imagine if just 100 people took part in this free initiative. There's never been an opportunity like this to help children reach their full potential. The time to act is now!

FOUR SIMPLE STEPS

How It Works

1. Give — Make a qualified contribution through our school's ACE portal.
2. Receive — Get the required documentation to claim the credit.
3. Share — Provide that documentation to your tax professional.
4. Claim — File your return with the documentation to claim the credit.

EDUCATION FREEDOM TAX CREDIT

Frequently Asked Questions

What opportunities will this create for our school?

The Education Freedom Tax Credit (EFTC) will strengthen educational opportunities for our community, bolster our school's sustainability, and generate a new stream of revenue that helps reduce the financial burden of educational expenses for our families.

What educational expenses are covered?

Scholarship funds may be used for qualifying expenses connected with an eligible student's enrollment or attendance at a school, including tuition, books and supplies, tutoring, education technology, and other qualifying expenses. Additional guidance from the U.S. Treasury on eligible expenses is expected.

What is a qualified contribution, and how much can I give?

Individuals receive a 100% dollar-for-dollar federal tax credit of up to $1,700 (up to $3,400 for married couples filing jointly) when they contribute to a certified Scholarship Granting Organization (SGO). Our school's SGO is ACE Scholarships. Contributors cannot claim both the credit and a charitable deduction for the same dollars.

How does the EFTC affect religious liberty and private school autonomy?

The EFTC incentivizes private investment in student scholarships. Unlike traditional voucher programs, it does not use public funds appropriated by the state or federal government. This approach expands educational freedom for students and protects against government infringement of religious liberty, consistent with the U.S. Supreme Court's landmark ruling in Espinoza v. Montana Department of Revenue (2020).

Can parents give and direct the scholarship to their own children?

No. To ensure fairness, transparency, and compliance with federal law, parents cannot direct EFTC contributions to benefit their own children; the program prohibits any form of self-dealing. Dollars given through our school's portal, however, will be used specifically to create scholarships for our school's students. Donations go first to our approved SGO (ACE Scholarships), which verifies student eligibility and awards scholarships, so every dollar goes where it's needed most.

How will the federal government pay for these credits?

The EFTC is funded entirely through voluntary private contributions, not new government spending. It expands educational opportunity without taking a single dollar from public schools.

Which SGO is our school partnering with?

ACE Scholarships. For more than 25 years, ACE has worked to expand educational opportunities, helping parents choose the learning environment that best meets their child's unique needs. Their technology, track record, and expertise will help our school generate life-changing scholarships for current and future students and families.
